Monthly Meeting: Secular Transcendence With Tom Krattenmaker

Monday, February 17, 7:00 PM
at USNH

Join us on Monday for an engaging evening with Tom Krattenmaker. We will meet in the Social Hall of the Unitarian Society of New Haven at 700 Hartford Turnpike in Hamden.

Tom Krattenmaker is an author and columnist specializing in beliefs and values in public life. His most recent book is "Confessions of a Secular Jesus Follower."

Tom is also the Director of Communications for the Yale Divinity School.

Tom will discuss "A New Vision for Secular Transcendence". As religion has faded from importance in contemporary life, so has the sense of transcendence, which is traditionally described as the experience of "rising above" the mundane, ordinary aspects of our lives. Tom will present his vision for a secular transcendence that does not depend upon belief in any deity or other supernatural ideas.

Explorations: Bombing Auschwitz

-- February 1, 2:30 p.m.

The liberation of the most notorious of the Nazi death camps happened seventy-five years ago on January 27th, 1945. The PBS documentary we will see addresses an uncomfortable moral question-- Should Allied forces have destroyed the camps early on, dooming the inmates to certain death in order to save the hundreds of thousands who followed. This issue raises no easy answers, and engenders much deep thought worthy of consideration today.

Book Discussion: In a Different Voice: Psychological Theory and Women's Development, by Carol Gilligan

-- February 15, 2:30 p.m.

Gilligan believes that psychology has persistently and systematically misunderstood women – their motives, their moral commitments, the course of their psychological growth, and their special view of what is important in life. Here she sets out to correct psychology's misperceptions and refocus its view of female personality.

– Amazon

"Gilligan's book is feminism at its best... Her thesis is rooted not only in research but in common sense... Theories of human development are never more limited or limiting than when their bias is invisible, and Gilligan's book performs the vital service of illuminating one of the deepest biases of all."

– Boston Globe

Snacks will be served.

Wood-n-Tap Dinner Discussion: The Emergence of the Global Citizen

-- Feb 24, 7 p.m., Hamden

What does it mean to be a Global Citizen? How do we accept shared responsibility for the state of the world? A growing worldwide movement has begun that seeks to find solutions to these and other pressing issues. Australian humanitarian Hugh Evans started a movement that mobilizes "global citizens," people who self-identify first and foremost not as members of a state, nation, or tribe but as members of the human race. In this uplifting and personal TED talk, he describes how this new understanding of our place in the world is galvanizing people to take action.
